

---

Contents

Hartmut Lutz (University of Greifswald / University of Szczecin)
Preface . . . . .	9
A Bellini in Kyiv by Janice Kulyk Keefer . . . . .	11
Weronika Suchacka (University of Szczecin)
Introduction . . . . .	15
Part I: Ethics and Aesthetics of Canadian Historiographic Ethnofiction
Janice Kulyk Keefer (University of Guelph)
Chapter 1 – Simple Complications: Towards an Ethics of Historiographic Ethnofiction . . . . .	49
Norman Ravvin (Concordia University in Montreal)
Chapter 2 – Coming Across Bones at Radzanów: A Consideration of Canadian Writing, Ethnicity, and an Unmarked Burial Ground . . . . .	59
Jutta Zimmermann (University of Kiel)
Chapter 3 – Reading Contemporary South Asian Canadian Fiction as ‘Historiographic Ethnofiction’ . . . . .	73
Part II: Transcultural Perspectives on Canadian Historiographic Ethnofiction
Anna Żurawska (Nicolaus Copernicus University)
Chapter 4 – Historiographic Ethnofiction in Quebec and Acadian literature: The Case Study of Pélagie-la-Charrette by Antonine Maillet . . . . .	101

Ewelina Berek (University of Silesia in Katowice)
Chapter 5 – Historiographic Ethnofiction à la québécoise: Régine Robin’s The Wanderer . . . . .	117
Uwe Zagratzki (University of Szczecin)
Chapter 6 – Scot-“Land Deep in Time”: Alistair MacLeod’s Prose from Nova Scotia . . . . .	131
Joseph Pivato (Athabasca University)
Chapter 7 – Italian-Canadian Literary Contributions to Canadian Historiographic Ethnofiction . . . . .	145
Part III: Canadian Historiographic Ethnofiction Across Cultures and Genres
Mateusz Świetlicki (University of Wrocław)
Chapter 8 – Some Place to Belong: Home and Homelessness in Gabriele Goldstone’s Historiographic Ethnofiction for Young Readers . . . . .	161
Lisa Grekul (University of British Columbia)
Chapter 9 – Unmasking Trauma and Complicity: Historio/graphic Healing in Patti LaBoucane-Benson’s The Outside Circle . . . . .	175
Albert Rau (University of Cologne)
Chapter 10 – Historiographic Ethnofiction Reflected in Canadian Drama – Jason Sherman: Where is My Tree? . . . . .	193
Agnieszka Rzepa (Adam Mickiewicz University in Poznań)
Chapter 11 – Beyond Historiographic Ethnofiction: Interfaces of Ethnicity/Race and History in Recent Canadian Diasporic Life Writing . . . . .	205
Dagmara Drewniak (Adam Mickiewicz University in Poznań)
Chapter 12 – “A geography of the self and the landscape of otherness”: Writing Mennonite and Eastern European Ethnicity in Connie T. Braun’s Memoirs . . . . .	225
Part IV: Sites of Canadian Historiographic Ethnofiction
Janne Korkka (University of Turku)
Chapter 13 – Canadian Mennonite Narratives as Historiographic Ethnofictions of Space . . . . .	247

---

Cathy C. Waegner (University of Siegen)
Chapter 14 – Transnational Ethnofiction: Gerald Vizenor and Heirs of the Fur Trade . . . . .	269
George Elliott Clarke (University of Toronto)
Chapter 15 – Is “Historiographic Ethnofiction” Perpetually Tripped Up by Facts? Spy Invisible Blackness in Michael Ondaatje’s Coming Through Slaughter ; Audit Muted History in Esi Edugyan’s Half-Blood Blues . . . .	293
Authors’ Biographical Notes . . . . .	307
Index . . . . .	315